Whitford names Webco Coating, Inc. a “Recommended Coater”

May 2012, Lafayette, LA. Whitford, makers of the world’s largest, most complete line of fluoropolymer coatings, has launched a recommended coater program to recognize those applicators who meet or exceed strict requirements set by Whitford. Among these requirements are having a sound Quality Control program in place, knowledge of Whitford Coatings and how to apply them, and attendance at one of Whitford’s biannual training sessions. One of the companies named is Webco Coating, Inc.

Webco specializes in the application of high-performance coatings for many industrial applications, providing services to major industries, including oil and gas, chemical processing, automotive, and marine. Webco has been a leader in quality and service since 1976, offering coatings developed and manufactured by Whitford Corporation.

Says Jerod Angelle, President of Webco Coating, Inc. “We have a great working partnership with Whitford that began in the very early 1980s, and we are looking forward to continuing it for many more years to come.”
